

23/10/07

Hitting the right note at St Oswald's

Day Hospice patients at St Oswald's Hospice in Gosforth, were recently paid a visit by International composer of Alphamusic, John Levine. John has performed over twenty concerts throughout September and October, as part of a unique tour of UK hospices.

?? said "These engaging, interactive concerts help promote feelings of calm and joy among hospice patients. John performs original Alphamusic and guides his audience through sensory exercises and meditations that bring them into a calmer, more centered place."

John's Emerald Forest composition has played at several major public events this year. These have included, the Live Earth Concert at Wembley Stadium and again at the Concert for Diana.

A St Oswald's Day Hospice patient said:

"I felt so calm and relaxed after John's performance, everything seemed to slow down and become peaceful. I really enjoyed it and found it beneficial."

Sarah Turnbull, Day Hospice Team Leader said:

"We were delighted that John chose to perform his unique music to patients, staff and volunteers at St Oswald's. People found the concert fascinating, enjoyable and extremely relaxing. We greatly appreciated John giving up his time and donating back a percentage of his CD sales."

St Oswald's provides hospice care to adults and children from across the North East. No charge is made for the service, ensuring care is available for all. Annual running costs now exceed £6million of which £4.5million must be raised through voluntary giving.

For more information about Alphamusic, please visit:
www.silenceofmusic.com

Ends...Ends...Ends

Press Contact: Aimee Wood, Hospice Communications Officer

Tel: 0191 246 9053

E-mail: aimeewood@stoswaldsuk.org

For further information about John Levine please email PR@alphamusic.org